

The LBS Westdeutsche Landesbausparkasse (LBS West German Regional Building Society) is the largest of ten public building societies in Germany. Their business area is the federal state North Rhine-Westphalia with approx. 18 million inhabitants. The headquarters of the LBS West are located in Muenster/Westphalia. Together with the Duesseldorf branch, the LBS West employs approx. 800 staff.

At this location, the IT department is largely responsible for the field service staff and their mobile devices. In addition to standard software such as Microsoft Office 2010, branch software must always be available to client advisers, to enable them to provide advice routinely to the standard of competence expected. In order to prevent overloading these mobile laptops with diverse installations and in order to simplify administration, the IT department of the LBS Westdeutsche Landesbausparkasse decided to adopt the sophisticated technology of application virtualization.

Several vendors were considered; however, it was quickly decided to accept the solution offered by Evalaze. The target systems were principally mobile devices that did not have a permanent internet connection. This requires a virtualization solution which can be operated and distributed easily.

Evalaze offers virtualization without a client, and no other installation or infrastructure is necessary. The newly developed file associations feature could also be utilised immediately. This allowed certain file types to be started directly with the virtualized application. Thanks to the availability of a German-speaking support team with fast response times and direct contact to the developers, it was possible for any problems that arose to be solved quickly and easily within the pilot project. This pilot project included order virtualization including some adaptations in order to meet the request scenario in detail. Word 2010 was virtualized with Evalaze and made available to the LBS West simply as an .exe file. Thereafter, this virtualized application entered a test phase, in which field staff tested it under real conditions. The result was very satisfactory and we are delighted to continue to assist LBS West as a satisfied Evalaze customer.

If you would like to see the system in operation for yourself, we would be happy to arrange contact between yourself and the relevant person at the LBS.

What is Evalaze?

Evalaze enables the use of system-independent applications. A virtualized application can be run locally from your hard drive or from different physical media (CD, USB, etc.). During the virtualization process an application is consolidated into a single .exe file. All the required .dll (library) files and registry entries are contained within the file.
